

Sons of the American Revolution
Dr. Tom & Betty Lawrence American History Teacher Award

Application and Instructions

NEW RULES EFFECTIVE FOR THE 2023-2024 CONTEST YEAR

(Revised September 1, 2023)

The National Society of the Sons of the American Revolution (SAR) invites all American history teachers, whose approved curriculum teaches students about the American revolution era from 1750 to 1800, to apply for the Dr. Tom & Betty Lawrence American History Teacher Award. The award is open to all teachers at the middle or high school levels at a recognized public, private, or parochial institution. A teacher who teaches at a home school is not eligible. A teacher who is selected as a winner at the chapter level will compete for the state contest and the winner of the state contest will be a finalist for the national award. The award consists of two separate contests designed to select a teacher at the middle school and high school level. The national winner at each level will be entitled to the benefits described below.

The American History Teacher Award recognizes educators who distinguish themselves in teaching the history of the American Revolution. The award winner will receive a professional educational opportunity at a national seminar and bring back to their classroom and students a heightened level of creativity and enthusiasm for the American Revolutionary era.

Teacher candidates interested in entering the local SAR Chapter contest must complete the required application and submit a written essay of not less than 1000 words discussing the importance of teaching the American Revolutionary era. The essay may also describe any extraordinary teaching techniques or innovative projects utilized by the teacher to teach the American Revolution. The contest aims at identifying a teacher who is still actively teaching, has taught for at least three years, and who is in the early or middle stages of his or her career, therefore having at least fifteen years of productive classroom teaching remaining. The award is therefore not intended as an honor to a deserving teacher who is nearing retirement and thus not able to impart the knowledge gained at attendance at a seminar to many future students. It is recognized that school districts may have different job titles for teachers of American history, such as social studies teachers. The actual job title of the teacher is not important so long as the teacher has as their primary duty the teaching of American history. However, teachers who teach music, physical education, JROTC, or other subjects as their primary subject are not eligible. The essay should also discuss why the teacher wants to attend the educational seminar and how the teacher would use what is learned at the seminar in the future.

One signed letter of recommendation is required. It must be from the teacher's immediate supervisor or the teacher's principal. This letter needs to state why the applicant is an outstanding teacher of American history. In addition to the application and written essay, the applicant must submit a biography or curriculum vitae highlighting their educational background and achievements. All application materials must be typed or printed on 8 ½" x 11" standard paper and submitted through the mail, which is defined as the USPS, UPS, FEDEX, or similar delivery services. All original materials will remain the property of the SAR. Applications may not be submitted by e-mail. Also, where the application is handwritten, please make sure the writing is legible, particularly phone numbers and e-mail addresses.

The benefits to each winner are as follows, Attendance at a teacher workshop or seminar on the American Revolution. The winner will receive up to $3,000.00 to pay for tuition and travel expenses to attend one of the following teacher seminars: the Freedoms Foundation Summer Teacher Graduate Workshop at Valley Forge, Pennsylvania; the Colonial Williamsburg Summer Teacher Workshop in Williamsburg, Virginia; the Jefferson Symposium at the University of Virginia in Charlottesville, Virginia; or the SAR Annual Conference on the American Revolution. Other seminars may be attended provided the SAR provides prior approval in writing. The tuition for the seminar will be considered a scholarship and will be paid directly to the seminar.

Reasonable travel expenses directly related to attendance at a seminar will be incurred by the winner and submitted to the SAR for reimbursement. Winners are encouraged to discuss travel plans with the SAR prior to incurring expenses. Reasonable travel expenses may include airfare or mileage in the case of a winner driving a personal vehicle, and room and board where it is not provided by the seminar. Because the educational benefit is $3,000.00 it is possible that a winner may attend more than one seminar but the total scholarship for tuition, and reimbursement for expenses may not exceed $3,000.00. The winners must complete all seminars within 24 months after the winners are announced, or the award is forfeited. Within thirty days of attending a seminar, a winning teacher must submit to the SAR a report of not less than 500 words discussing the benefits of the award and how the seminar has improved their ability to teach the American Revolution. The report may be shared with the SAR membership including posting it on the website. The winner will receive a cash prize of $1,000.00 for their personal and unrestricted use, The winner will receive an IRS Form 1099, as this cash prize is taxable. One past winner each year will be invited by the National Committee Chairman to attend the SAR National Congress to speak at the Youth Awards Luncheon.

Attendance at an American Revolution teacher seminar is a condition to receiving any other awards provided to a winner. Once the seminar is completed the winner will receive a $1,000.00 cash prize, which is taxable. The winner may be invited to attend the SAR National Congress to speak at the Youth Awards Luncheon, or a Leadership Meeting with expenses paid up to $1,000.00 as part of the award.

In any contest year the SAR reserves the right not to select a winner in a particular school level if, in the opinion of the judges, the applicants do not meet the selection criteria.

Completed applications should be submitted to the local SAR Chapter and the Chapter winners submitted to the State Society. Each State Society may determine its own deadlines, but the applications from State Society winners for a contest year must be received by the SAR Director of Education no later than February 10 of the year immediately subsequent to the contest year for which the award is presented. For example, teachers who are selected by the state society as winners for the 2023 contest year must have their applications received by the SAR Director of Education by February 10, 2024.

1) All American History Teacher Award applicants must complete and include the following information and attach it with the application form:

a) An essay of a minimum of 1000 words, discussing the importance of teaching the American Revolution and providing details of any extraordinary teaching techniques or innovative projects utilized to teach the American Revolution. The essay should also discuss why the applicant wants to attend the Freedoms Foundation, Colonial Williamsburg, Jefferson Seminar, or the SAR Annual Conference on the American Revolution, and how the teacher would use what is learned at this summer workshop in future classes.

b) Curriculum vitae highlighting the applicant's educational and professional background. This should include any education-related awards or recognition received. The applicant may also include any community organizations in which he or she is involved, and any awards or recognition received from those organizations. Activities in which the applicant has participated since he or she began his or her professional career will be particularly useful to the judges.

c) Include a signed letter of recommendation from the applicant's supervisor or principal stating why the applicant is qualified for this award. Additionally, other letters of recommendation from those who have firsthand knowledge of the applicant's teaching techniques may also be submitted.

d) Applicants will submit a photograph with their application, which may be used by the SAR to publicize the contest winner. The photograph will not be returned.

e) A signed and dated "Release & Discharge of Responsibility Form" must be submitted with the application.

f) All application materials shall be submitted on 8 1/2" x 11" standard paper and submitted by mail through the U.S. Postal Service, Fed Ex, UPS or equivalent delivery service.

2) Applicants in this contest agree that the interpretation of the rules and decisions by the judges and the SAR shall govern without exception.

3) Applicants agree that they will submit a report of their attendance at a workshop/seminar to the SAR no later than 30 days following the completion, discussing their experience and how they will utilize that in their classroom. The winning applicant also agrees he or she will be available, scheduling permitting, to attend an annual SAR Congress or Leadership Meeting to report on his or her experience. It is understood that if the SAR extends an invitation to the winner to attend, that the winner's travel and lodging expenses will be paid by SAR, subject to the reimbursement guidelines of this award.

4) This award is specifically for graduate programs in the American Revolution and not redeemable for its monetary value. If the award winner is unable to attend an educational seminar during the year in which the award is presented, the winner may attend in a subsequent year. The winner must attend a seminar within 24 months after the award is announced, or the award will be forfeited.

5) All winners will be sent a form explaining the expense reimbursement rules along with an expense claim form. It will also include information about contacting the approved seminars. Additionally, it will include reimbursement guidelines as to acceptable classroom supplies and educational materials.

6) Any winner is not eligible to participate in subsequent contests. Although no teacher may win a second award, unsuccessful applicants may continue to apply for subsequent contests.

7) An applicant must submit an application for this award through the SAR Chapter and State Society in which the school campus is located and where the teacher is employed. The teacher may live in an adjoining state, but the application must be submitted through the State Society where the school campus is located. If the State Society where the campus is located does not have an active American History Teacher Award program, then the applicant may submit an application through any adjoining State Society.
